

Dan Samia
Personal Statement
BCOR 4003

My name is Dan Samia and I am an Operations Management major. I bring value to team work through my excellent written and oral communicative skills. I am organized, concise, and like to work quickly and efficiently when working with a group. I am flexible and open to the ideas of my group members; however, if I feel as though someone is wrong about something, I will prompt debate. I rarely ask for assistance, but am happy to extend my advice or services to other group members if asked.

The best example of group work I have produced in the past was for Project Management, or SYST 4080, last semester. Working with three other individuals, the group produced a 120-page deliverable for a global firm headquartered in Denver, and a presentation was made to several executives. This project was the recipient of an A for a grade. I have similar goals for this course.

I am flexible in scheduling and have much availability. I strive to be easy to contact and prompt to respond. Thank you.

Dan Samia
Samia@Colorado.edu
978-580-9323
Leeds School of Business
University of Colorado - Boulder